Treeline, Inc. is Named as One of the Region's Best Places to Work for the Second Year in a Row

Boston Business Journal will count down winners at June event; Treeline selected from pool of nearly 400 applicants

(Boston, Ma.) – The Boston Business Journal has once again announced its annual ranking of the region's Best Places to Work. For the second year in a row, Treeline has made this list. The 60 honorees will be profiled in a special supplement to the Boston Business Journal on June 13th.

The results are based on surveys of employees at each company. The surveys posed a series of questions about work environment, work-life balance, job satisfaction, advancement opportunities, management compensation and benefits. This year's top ranking firms were chosen from 392 nominations, making it the largest program in the event's four year history. Categories include small, large and medium companies.

"The Best Places to Work are companies that invest in their employees, foster a positive work setting and exhibit a team oriented environment," said Mike Olivieri, BBJ publisher. "These leaders understand that employees are the foundation of the company, and the engine that drives the business forward. It creates a tangible difference with the competition."

The special June 13th supplement also provides insight into the distinct leadership styles of the reigning companies. From training and promotions to taking a personal interest in employees, these top presidents and CEOs share their strategies for improving morale and maintaining low turnover.

"With the hiring market so tight, a quality workplace truly is a competitive advantage," said Editor George Donnelly. "Employees respond to a flexible yet challenging culture and company leaders who lead by example."
